Huntington, W. Va.

Senate forum

PRESIDENT ROLAND H. NELSON JR. speaks to Student Senate on the faculty retirement and increment controversies. The Senate later passed a resolution "repudiating" the Marshall University administration and West Virginia Board of Education for "their lack of courtesy," toward faculty members involved.

Councils adopt Homecoming policy

The Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Council have decided to adopt a Triad policy for building Homecoming floats for the 1969 event.

The Triad policy is a plan to let three groups work on one float. This will eliminate a lot of the cost which goes into the floats.

"In the past each group has entered a float, but it is too hard for everyone to find a place to build their float," said Rich Warden, sprague junior and IFC president. He added that with the groups working together, it should bring about better Greek relationships.

Small groups will be teamed with larger groups to give everyone a chance and to add to the competition. In this way there will be approximately six floats.

"Downtown merchants are being contacted to see if they might contribute to help defray costs," said the IFC head. He added that the floats are quite expensive to build and that the merchants will be helping themselves since the parade does bring people into town."

In the past floats were built, but the cost and finding places to build them proved to be their downfall according to Warden. "We feel by using the Triad policy, we can add to homecoming."

MU may lose museum

By JIM TODD
Staff Reporter

Is Marshall going to lose its geology museum?

The loss of the museum is likely if President Roland H. Nelson Jr. doesn't reconsider the forced retirement of Dr. Raymond E. Janssen, Geology Department chairman. This was revealed in an interview Wednesday with Dr. Janssen.

Valued near $50,000, 75 per cent of the museum belongs to Dr. Janssen and 25 per cent to Marshall, according to the professor.

"If I am forced to retire in this fashion, I'll take everything that belongs to me," Dr. Janssen said. "I had previously planned to donate the museum to the school, but as I see the situation now, I won't."

Dr. Janssen said that he had private talks with Dr. Nelson last week and the president is considering the extended employment of the geology professor.

He explained that an experienced man would be needed to move the museum into the proposed new science building when completed.

"I would gladly retire after the museum has been moved and set up, but I would hate to see 27 years of hard work and accomplishment destroyed."

The only one of its kind in the state, the museum contains 5,000 exhibits, featuring the rocks and minerals of West Virginia, commercial minerals, fossils, etc.

Dr. Janssen said through his work at Marshall many of the exhibits had been donated to him from many parts of the world, to do with as he saw fit.

"The letter I received announcing my retirement was cold. They showed no appreciation for work. There was not even enough time to look for another job."

Dr. Janssen said if he was not retained, he would retire and stay in Huntington.

He said he would probably donate or sell the museum articles that he takes with him to individuals and other museums.

"Some of the articles are very valuable. I wouldn't have any trouble getting rid of them."

Senate proposes $42,433 budget

By WAYNE FAULKNER
Staff Reporter

The Student Senate Wednesday night heard the first reading of the proposed Student Government budget for 1969-70 which totals $42,433 in anticipated expenditures.

After hearing President Roland H. Nelson Jr. speak on the faculty retirement and increment controversy, the Senate passed a resolution "repudiating the Marshall University administration and the West Virginia Board of Education for their lack of courtesy" toward faculty members involved in the recent retirement and increment decisions.

The resolution passed with four dissenting votes. Voting against the resolution were Senators Richard Ferguson, Huntington freshman; Jack Klim, Huntington junior; William Shoub, Huntington sophomore; and Madeline Stover, Beckley sophomore.

After acting on the resolution sponsored by Sen. Tom Hensley, the Senate heard the proposed budget which features a $12,000 allotment for both Impact and Homecoming, and an $8,000 allotment for Winter Weekend.

Sen. Marty Boatman, Bainbridge, Ohio, junior, reporting on next year's Homecoming activities gave "Support Your Local Marshall" as the theme of the weekend activities set for Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

Sen. Boatman also listed possible entertainment groups for Homecoming. The groups mentioned were "The Brooklyn Bridge," "Steppenwolf," "Sly and the Family Stone" and "The Temptations."

According to Miss Boatman Homecoming next fall will be "much bigger production than before."

Elaborating on other activities scheduled for next year, Miss Boatman explained that Parents Weekend "would be similar to past ones," but added that "we hope to have a broader program for freshmen next year to last the whole year, especially trying to interest students in staying on campus on weekends."

In other Senate business a resolution sponsored by Sen. Neal Borgmeyer, Huntington freshman, to support and cooperate with the Undergraduate Alumni Association as a liaison between the students and student government was passed.

The Senate will hear the second reading of the proposed budget next week before voting on it.

The budget as proposed is as follows:

Anticipated Receipts: Campus Activities — $17,763; Student Activities Fee — $24,670; total receipts — $42,433.

Anticipated expenditures: student union activities — $342; Parents Weekend — $175; scholarships — $916; office supplies — $600; freshman activities — $600; equipment and repairs — $100; bond — $15; petty cash — $75; Blood Drive — $50; Homecoming — $12,000; elections — $400; Leadership Seminar — $600; IMPACT 1970 — $12,000; block booking — $500; student government publicity — $500; Winter Weekend — $8,000; telephone — $800; duplicating — $300; postage — $150; High School Visitation — $600; salaries — $1,440; travel allotment — $500; Book of Semester — $20; Student Directory — $100; Forum — $1,500; and contingencies — $150. Total expenditures — $42,433.

Educator to speak tonight

Dr. John B. Joyner, former associate professor of speech and theater at Indiana University, will speak today at 8 p.m. in Smith Hall auditorium.

Sponsored by the MU's Speech and Hearing Clinic, Dr. Joyner's topic will be "Aerodynamic Factors in Voice Production."

The educator resigned his position at Indiana University to become dean of students and director of that university's new center for human relations. The center explores problems—academic, cultural and financial—faced by prospective students from disadvantaged backgrounds.

Dr. Joyner is a member of the American Speech and Hearing Association.

Deanship wearing

'Some break out in a rash'

By KATHY STEPHENSON
Staff Reporter

It may seem to Mrs. Lillian Buskirk, associate dean of students, that the changing of deans in the Office of Student Affairs is as regular as the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace.

Mrs. Buskirk, who has worked with 13 deans of men since she has been at Marshall, said, "There just seems to be a constant flow of them."

She attributes the changes partially to the hardships of the job.

"It is completely wearing," she said about the job of counselling. "I have seen some deans break out in a rash of nerves under all the rush and pressure."

Some of the aspects of Mrs. Buskirk's job are handling emotional, financial and disciplinary problems of the students.

She said because of the increasing number of students, she cannot become as personally acquainted with as many today as she could several years ago.

"I used to have time to go to the student union and play a game of bridge with students, which helped me get to know them in a different way."

Added responsibilities to the Office of Student Affairs have both helped and hindered the student's progress in college, according to Mrs. Buskirk.

"There was a time when freshmen were herded into the auditorium, given a catalogue of requirements, and told to make up their own schedule," she said. "But today they are given special counselling and instructions to help them understand requirements."

"I think there is a little spoon-feeding involved," she added.

Dean Buskirk also said she believed that coeds have relinquished over the years some of their responsibility to the administration concerning personal disciplinary problems in the dorms.

She related that girls of the past were much more determined to let their peers know of their disapproval of such acts as cheating on tests or stealing.

"The girls would form sort of disciplinary committees, which the housemothers usually knew nothing about, and on their own, would locate the thief and recover their property."

Many emotional problems were also taken care of by the girls, according to Dean Buskirk.

"There was one girl who used to have temper tantrums and throw things," she recalled. "After a period of time, a group of girls escorted her to the end of the hall and gave her a good talking to, which seemed to calm her down."

"Today the girls get just as mad about these things, but expect the administration to do something about them."

Aside from this, Dean Buskirk said she believes that coeds are generally more mature today than in the past.

you can't have too many of.

The body shirt. The shirt with everything. It isn't enough anymore to have a light one and a dark one and a printed one. It's the shirt to own like scarves—by the dozen. It's the shirt to wear with pants. With shorts. With mini skirts and suit skirts and long skirts and longer skirts. It's the shirt to drape with chains. To scarf. To belt. To tie with its own tails. To have ruffled or un. Pocketed or not. Sheer or otherwise. It's even the shirt to wear over nothing at all. In other words, it's the shirt to invent costumes with. Which is why we have it oompteen dozen marvelous ways. For people like yourself. Who know what you can't have too many of.

GRIPELINE

By CATHY HART
And

Q. It seems to me that the fall schedule of classes has a serious case of "staff infection." Why?

A. Luther E. Bledsoe, registrar, said the only reasons "staff" is listed in the schedules is that these courses are either new or their instructors have not yet been employed by the University.

He added that if you want to find out who "staff" is, go to the department chairman. We realize this information is not too useful at this late date, but now you know for next semester's registration. GRIPELINE lives on to be "better late than never."

Q. I understand the Math Department pays students to help other students under a tutoring plan and that they are supposed to be in the math library in Smith Hall. However, I can never find anybody to give me any help!

A. The Math Department does have a tutoring service, but tutors are not in the math library. Instead, it is suggested that you check the bulletin boards in the math classrooms where you'll find a list of tutors and their office hours and locations. If you still need assistance, ask your instructor who knows the particulars about this service.

Q. How can I get the juke box in the Union turned down when the manager is owhere to be found. I'm told he's the only one who can turn it down.

A. Don Morris, manager of Shawkey Student Union, told GRIPELINE that the question itself is "asinine" because he is there "every minute of the day" as well as custodians who have keys.

We of GRIPELINE can rarely hear the "box" while relaxing over an icy diet-cola between dubious deadlines, but if the loudness is too much for you to handle, you might move away from it!

Q. Why is it that since two girls became the GRIPELINE editors about 90 per cent of the published gripes come from residents of the girls' dormitories.

A. The best answer we can give you on this is that evidently only the women actually submit their gripes to us. We've had some gripes from men but none pertaining to their dormitories. And as of yet we have found no way to enter and solicit complaints personally. The old tune seems to apply, everybody talks, but nobody does anything about it.

Both editors do not live in the dorm, so we assure you of no partiality!

Needless to say, it's been a real experience writing this column. We hope we haven't caused any unfriendly relations with our sources whom we have bugged weekly — but we had a column to get out. so we just did our own "thing," which is all you can do!

Hoping to have helped right maybe a few of the obvious wrongs on our campus, we sign off contented, leaving you with our hopes for

PEACE

No action taken by faculty body

No action has been taken yet by the University Council on the designation of a delegation to appear before the West Virginia Board of Education to discuss retirement policy, nor has any progress been made on the formation of a grievance committee.

Formation of the delegation will "not necessarily be anytime soon," Dr. Sam Clagg professor of geography and president of the Council, said, "because the Board will probably not meet again until after the close of school."

Dr. Louis Jennings, professor of Bible and religion, who was authorized by the Council to form a grievance committee, said that action was pending a report from the last Council meeting.

"I doubt that any action on the committee will be taken until sometime during the summer," he said. "A good deal of investigation has to be made."

The next University Council meeting is tentatively set for May 23.

Frosh orientation begins July 31

"We're trying to get away from big group-type meetings," said Mike Hoh, Cincinnati, Ohio, senior and program director for freshman summer orientation.

Thirty counselors have been hired to serve as group discussion leaders. Each counselor is responsible for 10 to 15 students.

The sessions are July 31-Aug. 1, Aug. 3-5, Aug. 6-8 and Aug. 10-12. Three-hundred to three-hundred fifty freshmen are expected for each session.

pected for each session.

Counselors are already selected and will be notified by May 20. They are selected on the basis of their experience in working with groups and their grade point average. About 75 to 80 students applied for the position.

Counselors will help students schedule their classes and register. They will also inform students of University policies and organizations.

organizations.

"We want the counselors to take a more active part in advising students on class scheduling," said Hoh. "The main thing that this program is concerned with is getting students acquainted with Marshall so that they can feel a part of the University and identify with it."

Letter to the editor

To the editor:

Tuesday, while sitting in the Union, I chanced, out of boredom, to retrieve from an ashtray a copy of that day's Parthenon. After finding little in its pages but a huge spread on "Pike's Peak," pictures of mindless sorority children chasing pigs, rollicking in the mud, etc, I concluded that I should have left it in the ashes. If the events of IMPACT week had been as thoroughly covered, perhaps they would have had more impact.

A Parthenon relevant to a concerned campus would go far in helping to remove from our midst such travesties as people in Confederate uniforms parading around campus on horseback, inequities in teachers' salaries, and the various forms of segregation pervading the campus.

Until you reverse your policy of giving such important topics as the John Lent teach-in a second page brush off while devoting virtually whole issues to such trivial matters as Greek Week and "Pike's Peak" your newspaper will continue to be what it is now, a farce.

Last home game for Herd

Title hopes on line this weekend against OU

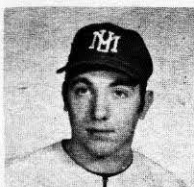

Seniors

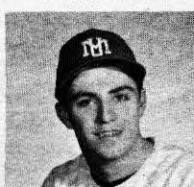

Carter

Stimpson

By BOB WADE
Sports Writer

The Thundering Herd baseball team puts its Mid-American Conference title hopes on the line and seven MU players will play their last home game of their career this weekend when MU hosts second-place Ohio University in a three-game series at St. Cloud Commons.

"We've still got a good shot at the title," said MU coach Jack Cook. "We've got to win two games to stay in the race and if we win three we could be in, but if we only win one, we're out of it."

Marshall is currently in fourth place with a 7-4 conference mark. Bowling Green is in third with a 6-3 record. OU is second with a 7-3 and Western Michigan is still on top with an 8-3 mark.

In the single game on Friday, Coach Cook will go with the MAC's leading pitcher, Paul Holley. Holley is 3-0 in conference play with an earned run average of 0.58. He will face OU's Ed Robbins who is fifth in the conference with a 2-1 mark and a 1.17 ERA.

Hewlett to pitch

On Saturday, Carl Hewlett, former MAC player-of-the-week, will go against Bob Morgan. Hewlett is 2-1 in conference play while Morgan is seventh in the MAC with an 1-0 record and a 2.15 ERA.

Tom Stimpson will pitch the second game of the scheduled double-header. Stimpson is ninth in the conference at 1-2 and a 2.83 ERA. He will oppose Bill Klouse at 4-3.

All three pitchers are seniors and will be making their last home appearance.

Seniors Horlin Carter and Jim

Fantuzzo will start their last home game for the Herd. A three-year starter for the Herd, Carter was named to the second and third All-MAC team his sophomore and junior years. After a somewhat disappointing beginning this season, Carter has come out of a batting slump and come up with some key hits in the past few games.

Shortstop Jim Fantuzzo has been hitting close to .300 and his strong arm has enabled him to make some difficult plays deep in the hole. "Fannie" has also been a three-year starter.

Last home game

Saturday will also be the last home game for Jim Dinwiddie and Rick Nelson. While seeing limited action, both men have turned in good performances in a reserve role.

Three-year starting catcher, John Mazur is a doubtful starter this weekend. He has been keeping heat packs on a shoulder separation and is now able to move it but it is still quite sore. Coach Cook indicated that even though Mazur may be able to play Friday, he may not be able to swing a bat well and he may rest him in hopes that he can play Saturday.

OU coach Bob Wren, commenting on his injured right fielder, Terry Raszka, who has a bruised hand, said he had heard of Mazur's injury. "It's too bad to lose him now," said Wren. "He's really a good one, it's a shame."

Paul Ragland, Charleston senior, will fill in for Mazur. Another lineup change for the Herd will be Carl Ray playing centerfield in place of Gil Koury. Ray played most of the double-header with Western Michigan.

"The way Ray has been playing," said Coach Cook, "I'll have to go with him. He gets a good jump on the ball and really hustles."

OU tough — Cook

Commenting on the game this weekend, Cook added, "OU is tough. They score a lot of runs. We're going to need good pitching and a lot of hits. We'll need everything we've got to win this one."

OU's Coach Wren said he was looking for a real close series. "Marshall gave Western Michigan a real tough time. They're a vastly improved team and we hope to give them a few good games."

When asked about the season thus far, Coach Cook replied, "I was a little disappointed with the slow start, but lately and in conference play, I've been real pleased." "We've gained respect in the conference and we've showed that we can compete with anyone in the conference. I hope to keep it up in the coming years."

MU is 13-9-1 on the year. OU comes into the series with an 11-10 record. The Thundering Herd will close out the season at Marietta on Tuesday with a single game against Marietta College.

Thinclads at Kent Saturday

By CATHY GIBBS
Sports Writer

Saturday at 1 p.m., the Marshall track team will compete with Kent State and Bowling Green Universities at Memorial Stadium, Kent, Ohio.

The MU line-up will be the usual with Steve Rule and Ed Berry in the 220-yard dash and the 440-yard dash; Charlie Wolfe in the 880-yard run; Bill Hill and Stan Backus in the two and three mile events; Hill in the steeplechase and Phil Parsons running the 440 intermediate hurdles. The relay team has yet to be chosen.

In the field events are Dave Lucas — discus; Dick Dardinger and Wayne Bennett — shot put; Dave Tolley — pole vault and Rick Turnbow in the high jump and the triple-jump.

Freshmen Dave Spindler,

Larry Banks, Steve Murray and Dave Emery will join in freshman competition in the hammer throw event.

The tri-meet is Kent's only home outing of the season. Kent has set two MAC track records this season. Art Coolidge clocked in 13:52.3 in the three mile event and Orin Richburg placed in the 220-yard dash with a 21.4.

Bowling Green's Sid Sink may have an effect on Marshall's scoring. Sink, which held the MAC record for the three mile run before Coolidge broke it, holds six school records, five are new ones set this year.

Sink runs the mile in 4:10.7 while MU's best is Stan Backus with 4:19.9—Sink runs the three mile in 14:01.6 while Bill Hill's best is 14:27.7. Sink also clips Hill in six mile with a 28:50.6 to 30:10.

Kent's Richburg may be trying hard to retain his MAC title against BG's Bob oHrne. Horne holds a 21.8 in the 220-yard dash.

Kent thus far has not participated in any dual meets, the only ones it entered were non-scoring meets, usually relays.

Bowling Green has scored in two meets, one third place and one first. Third place came when it competed against Illinois State University which was first with 59 points, Ball State second with 50, Bowling Green third with 47, and Butler (Ind.) last with 26.

BG's win came with 96 points against Central Michigan's 53, Ashland College's (Ohio) 51, Toledo's 45 1/2 and Cleveland State's 16 1/2.

Joe Espinosa: gives up grant for MU

By CATHY GIBBS
Sports Writer

Would you give up a full scholarship in track at the University of Eastern Kentucky to become a paying student at Marshall? Joe Espinosa, Silver City, N. M. freshman and mid-semester transfer did.

Espinosa, a graduate of Silver City High School, accompanied his Eastern roommate, Mike Robinson, a Huntington freshman also on scholarship, to West Virginia and MU.

Espinosa is a physical education major and long distance runner for the MU track team. He placed third in the Athens Marathon in Athens, Ohio, which was a 26 mile non-stop run from Coolville to Athens.

In high school, he was under the coaching hand of Joe E. Brown and Jerald Garrett. He would run with George Young, the third place winner of the steeplechase in the Olympics and holder of the world's record in the indoor two mile and three mile events, and holder of the American title in the two mile and the steeplechase.

"I had lots of encouragement from George," says Espinosa. "His coach, Jim Fox, helped me with the workouts."

To keep in condition through the summer, Espinosa plays catcher in both softball and baseball, runs six miles a day, and does assorted jobs, such as construction work, hotel desk clerk and ticket agent.

Under Mid-American Conference rules, he is ineligible to run for Marshall until his junior year, so he has been representing the Huntington Jaycees in every race.

His weekly load alters little and is a seven day continuation: Monday — Distance running of eight to 10 miles in the afternoon; Tuesday — Distance running of eight to 10 miles in the morning with 25 one quarter miles in the afternoon; Wednesday — Same as Monday, only the distance is 15 miles; Thursday — Eight to 10 miles in the morning and a four mile warm-up in the afternoon before he does his speed work of about 45 110-yard dashes (three sets of 15); Friday — If no meet then eight to 10 miles; Saturday — If no meet then two workouts, morning 10 miles and afternoon 15; Sunday — Long distance running, between 17-20 miles at one work out.

Espinosa says, "I run a heavy work load mainly because you have to be consistent and work out hard up to Wednesday and that's the last hard work out day of the week."

"Coach Shaw is one of the best coaches I've had, he knows what he's doing and how to make you do it. He doesn't mess around. He's a real asset to the Marshall coaching staff. All the guys are great too. They help me out a lot."

Intramural standings listed

Independents are the leaders in the over-all standings in intramural sports released this week by the Intramural Board.

Independents have totaled 495 points in 13 completed events. Sigma Alpha Epsilon has collected 306 points, Kappa Alpha has 291 points, followed by Tau Kappa Epsilon with 220 points.

Lambda Chi and SAE's tied for first place in the annual swimming meet held Tuesday afternoon. In the seven event competition both teams compiled 28 points. Zeta Beta Tau captured a close third with 27 points and TKE's finished with 10 points.

In Wednesday's softball action, Sigma Phi Epsilon Twos downed DI Twos, 5-4. Bill Crouch, Charleston sophomore, and Steve Smith, Huntington sophomore, combined to drive in four runs on two doubles. John Lilly, Beckley junior, smashed a fifth inning double to knock in two runs for the DI's.

Previously unbeaten Kappa Alpha Fours, lost to the Stokers, 5-1, behind the two hits of Bob Schwob, Holmdel, N. J., junior. Schwob drove in three runs with a double and a single. Jack Harvey, Hinton freshman, batted in the lone run for the

FROSH BASEBALL

The Marshall freshman baseball team will be at Ohio University Saturday for a doubleheader with the Bobkittens.
